Audience Club 2024 (Adrian) A well written, moving solo

★★★★★

Audience Club 2024 (Ines) performance / Minimal and poignant props /staging.

Audience Club 2023 | An intense, emotional and reflective monologue...Effective and symbolic use of props, lighting and sound.

★★★★

The Review Hub (2017) The evening's most horrific story comes with an almighty emotional punch that carefully sidesteps the sentimental and explores the effect of a shock tragedy on a single mother

Younger Theatre (2017) | Cleverly suggested through movement and lighting. The play takes a shocking turn and becomes a tale of love, loss, and all that comes with it.

Theatre Box (2017) A harrowing piece about motherhood, shock and grief. mundane joys, de-gradations and celebrations that motherhood entails.

Sardines

A triumph 'Someone sat behind me said that we should have stood to applaud and I agree... It is impossible to untangle the roles of writer, director and actor in achieving the outcome but that is what great theatre is all about. The structure is overlaid with beautifully written dialogue.

★★★★★	West End Evenings. The unusual setting is simple but effective – a bathroom at the wedding venue, strewn with copious baskets of discarded notes, loo rolls and cue cards, a chandelier and wedding balloons. The lighting and sound effectively transform the secluded hideaway in stark contrasts with the off-stage revelry and bombastic characters.

Close Up Culture. Simple but effective set design | It's realism brings irreconcilability, at first glance, gradually becomes the source of ridiculousness and humour, the irregular use of props starts to introduce the exaggerated nature of the play
